

THE MODERN HOUSE

London WC2
£3,500,000 Leasehold

Stukeley Street

A liberating sense of openness defines this light-filled two-bedroom penthouse apartment. It is spread across the two top floors of a recently converted, portered warehouse, just north of Covent Garden, and exceeds 2,000 sq ft internally, with masses of multi-directional glazing and south-facing terraces for each of the three principal rooms.

The Tour

The apartment is accessed directly via a coded lift to the fifth floor. An intimate entrance hall offers convenient cloak storage and leads through to the hallway that links the enormous open-plan reception and kitchen.

To the left lies the living and dining room. Limed oak floors with underfloor heating run underfoot, and windows along three aspects pour brilliant light into the space.

The kitchen unfurls along the wide hallway to the south, running parallel to a long section of the terrace. Several glazed sliding doors open the eastern and southern sections, the latter extending some 20 ft in length and offering exceptional views across Covent Garden.

THE MODERN HOUSE

London, West London
£3,500,000 Leasehold

Stukeley Street

An unusually generous stairwell, with wide oak treads and steel spindles, ascends to the upper level, where there are two bedrooms and two marble-clad bath/shower rooms. Both bedrooms have access to outside space and in-built dressing areas or wardrobes.

Outdoor Space

Terraces and balconies wrap the apartment on the north, south and eastern sides. The largest of these spaces is an inversion of the lower-level interior; a long balcony that becomes an open area with space for dining and excellent views to the south and south-west. A balcony in the northern corner links the bedroom and its bathroom, and the bedroom to the south has access to its own substantial terrace.

The Area

Stukeley Street is a quiet no-through road located just off Drury Lane. It's a superb central London location, within a short walk of all that Covent Garden and Soho have to offer. The Royal Opera House is minutes' walk away, and some of London's best theatres, including the Lyric Theatre, the Apollo Theatre, the Gielgud Theatre and the Sondheim Theatre, lie close by on Shaftesbury Avenue. The culinary scene in the area is similarly unparalleled, with local favourites including The Barbary, The Barbary Next Door, Petersham Nurseries' La Goccia, Ave Mario and Dishoom. Seven Dials Market is moments away, and is home to a selection of design-led shops and cafes, including St John Bakery, Monmouth Coffee and Apple Butter Cafe.

Holborn and Bloomsbury are a short walk east, the Strand, Embankment and St James' Park lie to the south, and Soho, Mayfair and Marylebone lie to the west. From The British Museum to The National Gallery, Somerset House to Sir John Soane's Museum, many of London's most renowned cultural distractions are within easy reach.

Holborn (Central Line) is less than one minute away from the apartment; Leicester Square (Northern and Piccadilly Lines) is a two-minute walk. Charing Cross train station is a seven-minute walk away, running nationwide railway services.
